READING IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOL

Reading in the public schools of this county to my mind is the most important, and yet the most neglected of all the subjects in the curriculum.

It has been said that everything we read becomes a part of us. This is undoubtedly true in the case of pupils in the grades, or in the stage of development. Hence how important that they read, but read such things as will supply memory's storehouse with the best literature, at a time when it is most likely to be retained.

In after years these same selections will hold far greater interest for the reader, because they have been previously read, and studied; also the later reading of the same selection will then constitute the finishing course in the study of these classics, and will bring out the finer shades of meaning, and hidden beauties previously undiscovered. The reading in "The Old School" placed a greater emphasis on expressional reading, but from my observation I think we need to place more emphasis on thought getting, but while we place emphasis primarily on interpreting the selection for the reader himself, the formalities necessary to give the full force of the selection to the hearer must not be overlooked. The technique of reading though always subordinate and secondary to the mastery of the thought nevertheless claims constant and careful attention. The art of good reading can only be cultivated by judicious training, and the PUBLIC school should spare no pains to realize this result. We should be very careful in our selection of reading matter and select such and only such as is the best in poetry and prose in the literature of the English speaking race. Such as shall be the means of cultivating in our pupils a taste for good reading, and at the same time shall have that refining influence on character which good literature always has. Without a doubt the reading accepted in the public schools is seriously deficient in these particulars.

The problem then that confronts the teacher is the adaptation of the reading matter, or the selection, to the development period of the pupil as he stands on the threshold of adolescence, the time of rapidly forming ideals, and the extreme susceptibility to suggestion "As a man reads so will he think; as he thinks, so will he live." The cry is going out from our high schools and colleges "Teach them how to read." Contrast the man of high culture with the man of no culture. The intellect of the uncultured man is confined to his five senses. It takes in nothing but the dull images around him, all else is a complete void. His soul is tied to the present, and that small spot of the earth's surface on which he moves in his daily rounds. Upon the other hand take the cultured man. When he opens a book and reads with an eye intent, in a few minutes the objects around him fade from his senses and his soul is carried away into distant regions, or into bygone times, or his mind may grasp grand ideas; his heart imbibe glowing sentiments; until he finds himself dilated, refined, inspired, a greater and nobler being. I am quite sure, to a great extent, we read ourselves into the style of language we use, into the forms of thought we entertain, and into the sort of lives we live. Then reading not only informs, but also forms the mind. The greatest intellectual training afforded by reading is the training of the imagination. Because poets and storytellers live in the imagination. We must train our mental eyesight—We must see the scene, enter into the thought and feeling of the story or poem which we read.

Without this power of mental vision we can never read well, because we can never understand well, so if we would travel into the realms of poetry and fiction we must take that exhilarating guide, the imagination.

But our reading matter in school should give information as well as acquaintance with the best literature.

I am quite sure that the subject matter should not only cover literature, but also Agriculture, Geography, History, Biography, Sciences, Industry and Ethics. Now the question arises where can I find the reading matter so necessary to be used in my school? I will answer this question I believe perfectly satisfactory to any honest inquiring

SAMPSON WINS CONTEST SUIT

Flem D. Sampson

In the case of A. J. Kirk against Flem D. Sampson, which was taken to the Court of Appeals from the judgment of Judge R. W. Slack. The Court of Appeals was of the same opinion as that of Judge Slack and affirmed the judgment.

There is now no doubt that Judge Sampson will be elected and will be one of the Judges of the Court of Appeals for the next eight years. He has made a noble fight, one that is clean, one that he nor his friends are ashamed of and made the race without putting the bottle to his neighbors mouth, or one cent of money to buy his birthright or to blacken his soul. If Judge Sampson works as hard there as he has in the Circuit Courts, he will most assuredly make good. So here ends the chapter in the Kirk-Sampson case and gives to the Republicans at least one member of the tribunal of last resort in the State of Kentucky.

BARBOURVILLE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

First month of school ended last Friday. Reports prove it to be a record-breaking month, the most successful in the history of the school. Last year the total enrollment was 356 pupils, which was far greater than any other previous year. This year however the first month alone exceeds last year's total by 4. In other words 360 boys and girls enrolled and not only did they enroll but they also attended school as the percentage of attendance based on enrollment was nearly 95%. We are proud of our boys and girls and let us hope that all their parents and friends will encourage them in perfect attendance and punctuality.

Rev. Anderson delighted the hearts of the students by his excellent talk in chapel Monday morning. Chapel exercises are held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week at 8:15 a.m. All friends and patrons are welcome to attend.

Next Thursday and Friday will be interesting days for the students as the first 6 weeks examinations will be given.

The students wish to extend thanks to Mrs. James D. Black for the magazines and books she donated to the High School Library, which is being started.

The First and Second Boys Basketball Teams had an exciting game one day last week.

Girls Basketball First Team will play Swan Pond Girls here this Friday.

Wednesday morning, the Chapel exercises were especially interesting, conducted by a much loved and honored friend of the students, Rev. J. W. Ligon.

The High School boys have organized a Tennis Club and are doing some good playing.

The High School Band organization meets twice a week. Some new music has been ordered and soon they will be giving some special music in Chapel.

The various Literary Societies of the High School held a joint session last Friday afternoon at

"The Eleventh District The Black Hole."

The above is the title to an editorial which appeared in the Courier Journal last week, and the Editor took occasion to roast the Corbin Times for some mention it had given the Knoxville Sentinel. It is really amusing how "Marse Henry" tries to make the people believe that those of us who live in the mountains are of that class who would not even come up to the standard of those of darkest Africa.

We are not ashamed of the land of our nativity, neither are we ashamed of its citizens. Some of the citizens of the mountains have far outreached the Editor of the Courier in the world of fame, and yet we acknowledge that he is above the average editors, when it comes to getting things down on paper, but we would gladly stand the once Chief Justice Miller of the United States Supreme Court, who was born in the mountains, in the county of Knox, up by the side of Mr. Watterson or any other man for comparison, or the late Governor of Missouri, Silas Woodson, who was also a native of the mountains of Kentucky and Knox county, or had the Editor of the Courier forgotten that the present Lieutenant Governor of Kentucky, James D. Black, was a mountain man? We who live in the mountains where the air is pure, where the water that comes rushing down through the cool ravines is as pure as that which is described in John's writing in that book of all books, and where freedom of speech and ballot has always prevailed, where even our humblest citizen, let him be white or black, has the same privilege as do the rich and mighty; where dwells the most chivalrous people that God's sun has ever shone upon. The time has never been when the Country demanded it, that every man in the Old Eleventh did not respond to its call; When the sound of the fife and the drum was heard in 1847-8, when the call came for volunteers to go to the far away republic of Mexico, the mountain boys were among the first to respond. It was deemed by them a pleasant duty to go down to that Country, and right the wrongs done to our Country and avenge the insult to our flag, and to help to waive it over the hall of its Capitol. When the call came from Lincoln the Great, who was the liberator of man, the boys from the mountains went to the front to help put down the rebellion, to perpetuate this Union, and not allow a lot of highlanders make it a Confederacy, to save our flag from disgrace, and while they were doing this, this same Editor of the Courier Journal was trying to shoot the boys from the mountains, who had answered their Country's call, and to shoot the flag of this Nation that had been made holy by the blood of the heroes who had died upon the many battle grounds for its preservation, and this is what hurts the said Editor. He and Joe Blackburn have never found words in the English language that were strong enough to express their hate for the people who reside in the mountains, and in the Eleventh district.

They think that the days of the Rebellion is still on, and that it is right for them to waive the "bloody shirt" and that we like a bunch of whipped curs, should lie down and let the wheels of the Democratic juggernaut crush us into dust, and do it without us even raising our voice.

This we will not do, the days of Caesar are over, we have come to that point in life that all men think for themselves. Mr. Watterson has always "Hammered" the citizens of the mountains, he is not content to take out his vengeance on the Corbin Times but he goes further and condemns all alike. We have many men in the Eleventh who are Democrats, they are good citizens. We do not expect any good thing to be said by the Courier Journal of those in the mountains, who by honest conviction have cast their lot with the party of Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, McKinley and the many others, who have brought this country from a chaotic state to light and liberty; but it does not appeal to us that the whole community should be condemned, for it might be that we may have as many just ones with us, as did Sodom and Gomorrah at the time Lot was warned to get up and get, or, it may be that this veteran editor would better ask the question, as was asked about Nazareth, "Can any good thing come out of the mountains?"

He ought to remember that as long as he and the rest of his party shall "knock" on Caleb Powers, that long he will hold a seat in Congress. Every knock is a boost.

Why cannot we be let alone? We attend to our own business, we are all happy and content; as far as lawlessness is concerned, we do not have to lock our doors, not even a Democrat in the Eleventh will do us any harm; we are God like, liberty loving citizens of these United States; we are ready at any time to defend the flag of our Country, although it has been dragged home from Mexico in the dust and in disgrace, by the unholy hand of a man who is not equal to the occasion.

We live in the land of honest people, in the land where the mocking birds and Bob-o-links make music by day, chanted by the hum of the wheels of commerce, where the nightingale sings its sweet lullaby, while the mills and mines are working overtime, where even the grapevine staggers from tree to tree drunken on the nectar of its own production. Where lives and breaths lais and lassies who are coming on to fill the places of their noble ancestry. "Oh, Marse Henry" give us a rest.

It looks now that there will be a lively scramble for the Circuit Judgeship in the Thirty-fourth district.

Democrats Weaken

With the election only four week off and everything looking so good to the Republicans, the Democrats seem to have only one resort or one thing to howl about and that is, Hughes does not tell all he knows. Why, God bless you, Hughes never talks without saying something and never says anything to take back. Woodrow is just to the reverse. You just wait until after March 4th and see if he don't say a plenty and watch if they don't pay some attention to what he says. All countries will then respect this country, and the man that would dare insult our flag will come to books, and won't be long about it either. They will then know that it will not do to fool with a man who does what he says he will do.

The Campaign

The campaign is getting hot. Some men may have the blues: Woodrow knows that he cannot, Beat our Charley Hughes.

Woodrow, you have played the wild.

You thought yourself quite smart:

When you thought it was a child. For the railroads will take their part.

Your eight hour law is all a bluff. You've gotten into a terrible fix. Four hundred thousand is not enough.

In this game of politics.

You can't fool the people in this year.

They read and think themselves As to your defeat we have no fears.

All the men who dig and delves.

We see you as you face the men. Who run the big railroads:

We see you when you failed, and then.

Tremble under that heavy load.

That is not all you've done.

You have kept us out of war; You tried it but it was all fun, My God what an awful scar.

You left in our Country's side. When to Mexico sent our fleet;

Their wishes to over-ride. And make us all look cheap.

You did at last disgrace our flag. Confess this you will and must;

You made it a dirty rag. You trailed it in the dust.

It has been waived on many field. Victorious in every case:

Until you to Huerata did yield. And brought it home in disgrace

It waived so high at Bunker Hill. Also at Bull Run;

At Appomattox it waives still. This was before your term begun.

The time has been when we could eat.

*Beefstak other meats and birds But you have failed, you are a cheat.

You have not kept your word. You have soared as high as you can go.

You will have to come down; November the 7th, is the show. Just watch the voters come to town.

W. H. McDONALD.

The Oil Situation

That oil will be found in paying quantities in Knox county and that development will soon begin is evidenced by the great number of practical operators who are in the field.

They are not "walking in-turning around- and walking right out agin", but are staying, going over the territory, investigating, becoming convinced of the great possibilities of Knox and surrounding counties, and securing leases in localities which to their way of thinking looks most promising.

Practical and successful operators, as men in other walks of life differ in their opinions as to what is the most desirable and promising territory, and as a result, practically the whole of Knox county is under lease.

One of the most pleasing features of this revival of interest in the class and character of both the individuals, whom it has been our pleasure to meet and the companies that are establishing themselves in our midst. It was to be hoped that the development of this county would be done by honest, capable and practical operators and that we would not again be put in the hole by "stock-jobbing" companies with a 20 acre lease and a Million dollar Capital Stock, and now we feel that our hopes are to be realized.

That the county will be thoroughly tested, there is no doubt, and that a good field will be developed is the universal opinion of those who have investigated and it is to be hoped that the good citizens of the county will co-operate with new-comers interested in the development of the county and make their stay with us pleasant as well as profitable.

The oil business is a perfectly legitimate business and men engaged in it are just as conscientious as the banker, the tradesman, the farmer or the common laborer and deserving of the same consideration. The day of the trickster is past. A contract or lease that is not equitable will not hurt you for the conditions of it can not be enforced.

Give a glad hand to the stranger who has the cash with which to drill a well, and be careful not to exaggerate or make any untrue or misleading statements that might cause him to act contrary to his better judgment.

THE FIELD LOOKS GOOD WHEN ALL THE FACTS ARE KNOWN.

Some time ago we asked our readers what they thought of Hon. W. R. Lay, for our next Circuit Judge, and from responses to that enquiry we find that Knox County is behind him good and strong. Shall we make it unanimous?

In talking to some voters from Whitley we are informed that owing to the wide acquaintance and large relationship in Whitley County of W. R. Lay that he will be able to poll more votes in that county than any person living out of Whitley.

DESPONDENCY.

When you feel discouraged and despondent do not give up but take a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets and you are almost certain to feel all right in a day or two. Despondency is very often due to indigestion and biliousness, for which these tablets are especially valuable. Obtainable everywhere.

MR. WILSON TOOK PLEASURE IN EXTENDING THE HAND OF WELCOME TO CARRANZA.

One of these "uncivilized" acts was committed on September 29th, when some of Carranza's soldiers captured an American trooper, killed him and cut off his head and ears. Exactly twenty days later, on October 19th, Mr. Wilson expressed "pleasure" in informing Carranza that he recognized him! Since the recognition, Carranza's troops by his orders have treacherously attacked and murdered American soldiers on at least two occasions. If the acts above recited—which are merely samples of the course of conduct Carranza has already pursued—do not constitute "treachery and assassination," then the words have lost their meaning. Mr. Wilson took "pleasure" in "extending the hand of welcome" to Carranza, whose own hand is red with the blood of murdered men and women of his own nation, and whose hands, unlike the hands of Huerta, were also red with the blood of murdered Americans, and of murdered American civilians, and of murdered American soldiers wearing the American uniform. But President Wilson cared as little for the deaths of these men as he cared for the honor of the uniform. He with "pleasure" extended the hand of welcome to the man guilty of their murder. —From the Speech of Colonel Roosevelt at Battle Creek, Michigan, in Behalf of Mr. Hughes.

FOR A MUDDY COMPLEXION.

Take Chamberlain's Tablets and cereals. Take outdoor exercise daily and your complexion will be greatly improved within a few months. Try it. Obtainable everywhere.

THERE SHOULD BE NO ACTION UNDER PRESSURE, UNDER DICTATION.

"We have one priceless treasure in this country, and that is the reign of good judgment after public discussion. In the long history of the people, victory after victory has been won over tyranny and force. We have a free press, we have a free form of public discussion, to the end that there may be a general understanding of our activities and a general association of what is necessary to the improvement of our conditions. We may disagree about this measure or that, but we have confidence in the public judgment in the long run. Hence there is one thing which we must always maintain, and that is that there shall be no action on the part of our elected representatives, taken under pressure, under dictation. We must know what the facts are and what justice requires." —Mr. Hughes in his Speech at Portland, Maine.

How Catarrh Is Contracted.

Mothers are sometimes so thoughtless as to neglect the colds which their children contract. The inflammation of the mucous membrane, at first acute, becomes chronic and the child has chronic catarrh, a disease that is seldom cured and that may prove a life's burden. Many persons who have this loathsome disease will remember having had frequent colds at the time it was contracted. A little forethought, a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judiciously used, and all this trouble might have been avoided. Obtainable everywhere.

MR. WILSON YIELDED PARTLY TO FEAR, PARTLY TO HOPE OF POLITICAL PROFIT.

President Wilson yielded to the dictation of the heads of the Brotherhoods, and made no effort to find out whether the demand was right or wrong. He made no effort to find out whether it could be complied with without raising freight rates. He made no effort to find out all the equities in the case; those affecting the men, those affecting the stockholders, those affecting the shippers. He took his orders from that one of the parties in interest which he most feared. He insisted that the law be passed without inquiry. And then he deferred the operation of the law until after election, which, of course, could only have been done for political reasons. The question at issue was not that of an eight-hour day at all. The question was whether President and Congress should enact a law, without investigation and without knowledge, to give increased wages to a certain portion of the body of the wage earners. The labor leaders on this issue, without regard to the right or wrong of the matter, first coerced the President, and then with his aid coerced Congress. The question at issue was not one of the hours of labor. It was one of wages. And it was settled by the President and Congress without investigation and without knowledge. The settlement was due partly to fear, and partly to hope of political profit. —From the Speech of Colonel Roosevelt at Battle Creek, Michigan, in Behalf of Mr. Hughes.

The Democrats complain because some Republican campaign orators pay so much attention to the President. What else has the Democratic party to talk about?

WILSON FORMERLY ASSAILED THE LABOR UNION.

The President is now a candidate for office and speaks well of labor. Until he became a candidate for office, and as long as he was President of a University, he, with entire safety, ignored or assailed the Labor Union, indeed, he was then their bitter, ungenerous, and often unjust critic. At the People's Forum on February 25, 1905, he said: "Labor Unions drag the lowest man to the level of the lowest." In an address at a dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria on March 18, 1907, in speaking of the capitalists, he said: "There is another equally formidable enemy to equality and betterment of opportunity, and that is the class formed by the labor organizations and leaders of this country." In a letter written January 12, 1909, he said: "I am a fierce partisan of the open shop." In June of the same year, speaking at Princeton, he said: "The usual standard of the employee in our day is to give as little as he may for his wages. Labor is standardized by the trades unions and this is a standard to which it is made to conform. I need not point out how economically disastrous such a regulation of labor is. The labor of America is rapidly becoming unprofitable under this regulation. Our economic supremacy may be lost because the country grows more and more full of unprofitable servants." I have no question that when Mr. Wilson thus spoke he expressed his sincere convictions. Less than two years later he was in public life and immediately his attitude changed. There is no reason to believe that his convictions changed. —From the Speech of Colonel Roosevelt at Battle Creek, Michigan, in Behalf of Mr. Hughes.

"President Wilson settled himself in his chair." —News item. Well, he has settled something, anyhow.

WILSON STRIKES WHEN THE IRON IS COLD

President Wilson refused to speak in Independence Hall on the one hundred and twenty-eighth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence in that hall, and he refused because inasmuch as over one hundred of our men, women and children had just been murdered on the high seas he regarded it as "the very moment when he would not care to arouse the sentiment of patriotism." Mr. Wilson has a positive genius for striking when the iron is cold and fearing to strike when the iron is hot. If one hundred and twenty-eight years ago Washington and Jefferson, and the other men who signed the Declaration of Independence had felt the same way about patriotism, and the same way about fighting as Mr. Wilson does, we would never have had a country. Had Lincoln felt the same way, there would be no such thing as the American Republic now in existence. —From the Speech of Colonel Roosevelt at Battle Creek, Michigan, in Behalf of Mr. Hughes.

COL. ROOSEVELT APPEALS FOR THE ELECTION OF MR. HUGHES.

I appeal to my fellow citizens that they shall elect Mr. Hughes and repudiate Mr. Wilson because only by so doing can they save America from that taint of gross selfishness and cowardice which we owe to Mr. Wilson's substitution of adroit elocution for straightforward action. The permanent interests of the American people lie, not in ease and comfort for the moment, no matter how obtained, as Mr. Wilson would teach us; but in resolute championship of the ideals of national and international democratic duty, and in preparedness to make this championship effective by our strength. President Wilson embodies in his person that most dangerous doctrine which teaches our people that when confronted with really formidable responsibilities we can shirk trouble and labor and risk, and avoid duty by the simple process of drugging our souls with the narcotic of meaningless phrasemongering. Mr. Hughes, to the exact contrary, embodies the ideal of service rendered through conscientious effort in the face of danger and difficulty. Mr. Wilson turns his words into deeds only if this can be achieved by adroit political maneuvering, by bartering a debauched civil service for congressional votes on behalf of some measure which he has solemnly promised to oppose. Our own self-respect demands that we support the man of deeds done in the open against the man of furtive and shifting political maneuvers; the man of service against the man who whenever opposed by a dangerous foe always takes refuge in empty elocution. —From the Speech of Col. Roosevelt at Battle Creek, Michigan, in Behalf of Mr. Hughes.

GREAT GROWTH OF HUGHES NATIONAL COLLEGE LEAGUE

Thirty thousand college alumni have enrolled so far in the Hughes National College League, 511 Fifth Avenue, New York. The oldest living graduate of Brown University, which graduated Governor Hughes, enrolled this week. He is the Rev. John Hunt of Springfield, Ohio, ninety-three years old, Brown, 1842.

The league challenged the Woodrow Wilson College Men's League this week to join it in "having any reputable audit company in this city check up immediately from the original cards your actual enrollments of Princeton alumni and ours, your total enrollments and ours, and your enrollments from any college you may select and ours."

The college men in the National Guard along the Mexican border are joining in droves, according to the officers of the league, and many have written in to signify their discontent with the Administration's handling of the Mexican situation.

William R. Moody, son of Dwight Lyman Moody, the famous evangelist, wrote to the league offering his assistance in East Northfield, Mass., and said:

"I am among those who feel very strongly that it would be a National disaster to have the present Administration continued another season, feeling deeply the humiliation to which our country has been subjected in the light of the world, by the lack of any foreign policy, and by the vacillation of its dealings."

The Administration ought to be able to take a comfortable rest. It has turned pretty much everything over to commissions from the Mexican question to the tariff. The talent for shirking responsibilities comes handy sometimes.

WILSON DEEMED IT FUTILE TO STAND FIRMLY.

President Wilson seeks to justify himself on the ground that it was "futile" and dangerous to "stand firmly." This is an appeal that can with equal truth be made by every soldier who runs away in battle. He further alleges his belief that the cause he championed "has the sanction of the judgment of society in its favor." I remember thirty-odd years ago in the Black Hills a local vigilance committee which was in doubt about hanging a suspected wrongdoer. While they were discussing the matter, there appeared over the neighboring divide a frowzy, elderly horseman in a linen duster, who promptly galloped towards them waving his arms and shouting "Hang him! Hang him!" The leader of the vigilantes at once asked the frowzy stranger what he knew of the facts, whereupon the stranger answered: "I do not know anything about the facts, and I never saw the man before; but there's eleven of you and only one of him, and I believe in majority rule!" This is merely a picturesque paraphrase of what Mr. Wilson calls action under "the sanction of society." It exemplifies the principle upon which President Wilson has acted in those public matters, internal and external, where he was threatened with the use of force.

Finnegan's Philosophy Single Track Minds

"What is he?" asked Finnegan. "Sure at Injinnypoles he said he was full of Annyimated Conservatism. Fwath's that ye say? Is the turn-table on the wan track mind. It kapes spinning round and round an' devil a man can tell what switch it will pick up. It dunnan itself. So ye dunnan where to lay for it."

"'Twas so wid the arrumed freight ships. 'They're not warships,' he says, 'unless I change me mind,' he says, 'which I have,' he says, 'an' annywan who says so is a liar,' he says, 'but I refuse to discuss it,' he says. 'I'll pass the buck to Congress,' he says, 'only I won't,' he says, 'for 'tis no business of theirs,' he says, 'though they must vote on the resolution,' he says, 'to show where they stand,' he says, 'hince ye'll lay it on the table,' he says, 'an' thin they can't vote,' says Wudthrow to Stone.

"'I-I—thought I seen a fallacy,' says Stone, timid like, but the Great Idayist bring down his fist wid a clump.

"'Table the resolution,' says he—an away goes Stone.

"'What does this mean?' axes 'the Shint.

"'Glatlemen, says Stone, weepin' bitterly, 'ye can frisk me. But thin's the orders,' says Stone, 'an' if anny man ever knew 'what it meant he's kep quiet about it.'"

"So wid the fightin' wurd. 'We're too proud to fight,' says this terrible man to a bunch iv just-overs at Philadelphia. 'Haw-haw-haw,' says the wurd in laugh gets his goat, Jawn. 'I was thinkin' iv somethin' I didn't say,' yells Wudthrow. 'Haw-haw-haw,' says the wurd, laughin' to split. "Re this an' be that 'Too Proud to Fight' has made the reppytashun iv Wudthrow. 'Tis like the Monroe Doctrine to Monroe or Emanshipashun to Lincoln. 'Twas thranslated into ivry tongue. 'Tis better known than the twenty-third psalm or the famous oration iv the Guv'nor iv North Carliny. If an Ashantee poked another in the eye he'd give him the coon fr 'Are Ye Too Proud to Fight?' an' they'd both laugh before they went to the dure. All the recruitin' signs abroad nad it, an' the shame 'ud bring three recruits where 'Tipperary' or rum wud bring wan. 'Oh, won't ye plaze stop laughin'?' says Wudthrow, but they laughed the more. So he sinds Jim Ham Lewis to explain. He's called Ham by reason he's so fond of pork.

"Three thousand years ago," says Jim Ham, "or maybe less," says he, "an' old Dago said, 'Non Dinny Carey win Kerry'." (or the like o' that, Jawn. It means not to have a chip on yer shoulder.) "Non Dinny Carey win Kerry," says Jim Ham, "an' Julius Sayer," says he, "an' Tolmy Philadelphy," says he, "an' the Earl iv Cheatem," says Jim, "an' William Hatcher Seward," says Ham, "an' a lot more I forgot," says Ham, "who felt the same way," says Jim, "although," he says, "they niver said so," says Jim Ham to the Shint.

"Now," says he, "how, I axe ye, cud the President know that the cultivated Christian audience," he says, "iv immy-grants," says he, "wud fail to grasp the noonce," says Jim Ham. "An' Jawn, they shut the dures the way the people wudn't see the Shint lose its dignity."

"'Fwath's a noonce?" asked Mathumphy.

"'Tis a sort iv intellectual gold brick," replied Finnegan, slightly puzzled, "he which ye say 'fwath ye don't mane an' mane we don't say. The noonce comes out iv it somehow. 'Tis like I dinnan what, just exactly like I," he added after a short pause. "I cudden't tell thin apart."

"Well," said Mathumphy, "the single track mind gets nowhere, I'm think in'."

"'Th' gauge is none too broad," replied his friend, "an' the thrallin' heavy," he added.

"Non Dinny Carey win Kerry"

The Wilson Keynote.
In his kneeling to the demands of the traitors, in his sacrifice of the sacred principle of arbitration on the altar of peace-at-any-price, we see, in review, the whole philosophy of the Wilson theory of government and nationalism.
"It is better to run than to fight."
That theory is at work in American government today for the first time. —Boston Journal.

The Wilson Waltz.
In view of recent events the following formula overheard on a hotel veranda may be of interest: The Wilson waltz, one step forward, three steps backward, hesitate, then sidestep.

The Administration is depressed by the reflection that under no circumstances can it postpone election day.

Wilson insists that he will never recognize government by assassination, but he hasn't cut off relations with those who have assassinated Americans.

The first President and the first Congress that ever submitted to a hold-up.

And, by the way, nobody will ever be able to claim this was a regular Democratic Administration unless we have a bond issue before March 4, 1917.

Betting on Hughes and Wilson is dangerous both to Democrats and Republicans. In one of the New England states such a bet was made a few days ago. The officers heard of it, and they arrested the Republican on a charge of robbery and sent the Democrat to an insane asylum. Be careful.

One thing we must all admit—the President is never too proud to sidestep.

A surplus of $5,200,000 from the postal service during the fiscal year ending June 30 is reported by Postmaster-General Burleson. With the department more than paying expenses, it would seem that the executive officials could afford to keep on the payroll members of the National Guard who responded when the President called out the Organized Militia for duty on the border.

President Wilson seems to have founded his diplomacy on a rock which is off its base most of the time.

The Eastern Witsmiths persist in referring to the Secretary of the Navy as Miss Josephine Daniels. No wonder the Woman's Party is camping on the trail of the Administration!

Mr. Wilson forgot to mention the pledges of economy in the 1912 platform.

"In his diplomacy," says Olie James, "the President has sounded a new note." What, another one?

It begins to appear that that single-track mind system will have to be temporarily double-tracked. A few weeks hence, of course, it will be side-tracked.

WASHINGTON AND LINCOLN PUT RIGHTEOUSNESS BEFORE PEACE.

The supporters of Mr. Wilson say that the American people should vote for him because he has kept us out of war. It is worth while to remember that this is a claim that cannot be advanced either on behalf of Washington or of Lincoln. Neither Washington nor Lincoln kept us out of war. Americans, and the people of the world at large, now reverence the memories of these two men because, and only because, they put righteousness before peace. They abhorred war. They shunned unjust or wanton or reckless war. But they possessed that stern valor of patriot-ism which bade them put duty first, not safety first, which bade them accept war rather than an unrighteous and disastrous peace. There were peace-at-any-price men in the days of Washington. They were the Tories. There were peace-at-any-price men in the days of Lincoln. They were the Copperheads. The men who now with timid hearts and quavering voices praise Mr. Wilson for having kept us out of war are the spiritual heirs of the Tories of 1776 and the Copperheads of 1864. The men who followed Washington at Trenton and Yorktown and who suffered with him through the winter at Valley Forge and the men who wore the Blue under Grant and the Gray under Lee were men of valor, who sacrificed everything to serve the right as it was given them to see the right. They spurned with contemptuous indignation the counsels of the feeble and cowardly folk who in their day spoke for peace-at-any-price. —From the Speech of Colonel Roosevelt at Battle Creek, Michigan, in Behalf of Mr. Hughes.

SHIFTY WILSON ON COLONEL'S BODKIN

Elusive Balancer on String of Words Pinned Down by Proof That In Fifteen Public Utterances He Took Forty-One Different Positions on Preparedness.

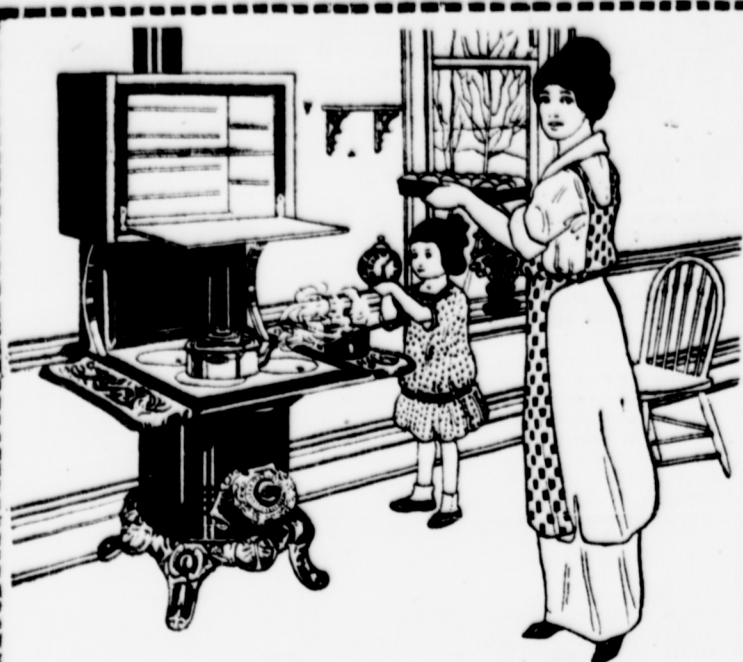

EACH STAND CONTRADICTED FROM 1 TO 6 OF THE OTHERS

Democratic Candidate Said That Our Army Was Ample and That We Did Not Have Enough Troops to Patrol the Border; That We Were on the Verge of a Maelstrom and That There Was No Critical Situation; That the National Guard Would Not Do and Then That It Must Do.

In the fourteen months extending from December 8th, 1914, to February 10th, 1916, there were fifteen messages, letters and speeches of President Wilson which I have read. In these fifteen messages, letters and speeches, during those fourteen months, President Wilson took forty-one different positions about preparedness and the measures necessary to secure it; and each of these forty-one positions contradicted from one to six of the others. In many of his speeches the words of one portion of the speech took all the meaning out of the words used in another portion of that speech; and these latter words themselves had a weaker significance as regards yet other words. He argued for preparedness and against preparedness. He stated that our army was ample; and that we did not have enough troops to patrol the Mexican border in time of peace. He said the world was on fire, and that sparks were liable to drop anywhere and cause us to burst into flame; and he also said that there was no immediate danger. He said that there was no sudden crisis; and then again that he did not know what a single day would bring forth. He said that we were on the verge of a maelstrom; and then that there was no special or critical situation. He said the danger was constant and immediate; and also that we were not threatened from any quarter. He said that there was no fear among us; and also that we were in daily danger of seeing the vital interest and honor of the country menaced and the flag of the United States stained with impunity. He said that we were in very critical danger of being involved in the great European struggle; and also that there was no need to discuss the question of defense, or to get nervous or excited about it. In one and the same speech, he said that a sufficient number of men would volunteer, and that if they did not he would be ashamed of America; and he also said that he did not know of any law which laid upon them the duty of coming into the army, if it should be necessary to call for volunteers. He said that we needed 500,000 volunteers; and that if there was any legitimate criticism of this demand it was because it was too small; and as soon as Congressman Hay objected to the plan, he promptly abandoned it. He said that the National Guard was not the proper body upon which to rely; and then not only changed his own mind but forced his own Secretary of War out of his cabinet, because this Secretary possessed less flexible convictions and was unable instantly to reverse himself when going at full speed.—From the Speech of Colonel Roosevelt at Battle Creek, Michigan, in Behalf of Mr. Hughes.

Mr. Hughes is seeing how big the west is, and the west is seeing how big Mr. Hughes is. It is a happy arrangement.

Candidate For Judge.

We learn that strong pressure is being brought to bear upon our neighbor, J. C. Bird, to become a candidate for Circuit Judge in the Kentucky District composed of the counties of Whitley, Knox and McCreary. Mr. Bird has been connected with the White Grocery Company for the past three years as manager of the Jellico house and while the business people of Jellico would regret to lose him, yet the people of his Judicial District could make no mistake by electing him to the office for which he is being wooed. He possesses all the qualifications requisite to a circuit judge, being a graduate from the National University of Washington, D. C., and having served a term as county attorney of Whitley county with a superb record.—Jellico, (Tenn.) Times.

Big Fight In Manchester.

Reliable information just received here brings the news that a live fight was had at Manchester in which Carlo Lewis shot Deputy Sheriff James Proffitt three times and that Carlo Lewis and his brother were shot by George Hall. All the men are in a dangerous condition. Late last night it was learned that Proffitt was dying, and that the other two would not live long. The Clay County Fair is going on, and it is said that lots of liquor is in evidence. The telephone system is very poor between London and Manchester and it was a hard matter to get anything definite.

SOLILOQUY AT SHADOW LAWN

Where are they gone, the old familiar faces?
I had a friend—McCombe, but he left me,
Left me slowly but surely, when I did not need him.
All, all are gone, the old familiar faces!
Once I had Bryan; he was my friend
In my hours of struggling in that great convention.
But now he's gone. Left me with "God bless you!"
Upon his lips. Gone, are the old familiar faces.
I had a friend; a truer friend had no man.
Like an inmate. I wounded my friend scutally.
And he, good Colonel Harvey, left me.
Left me.
To muse on the old familiar faces!
At my right hand sat my friend
Who was the strong arm of my Administration—
Garrison, upright and honest—but he too has left me.
Left me, when I deceived him—gone are the old familiar faces!
At Shadow Lawn, where new friends
swarm around me,
Earth seems a desert I am bound to traverse.
Seeking to find the friends who've left me.
But all, all are gone—the old familiar
faces!

FINNEGAN'S PHILOSOPHY

Pitiless Publicity

"I see Mr. Hughes wud like to know f'what's come to 'Pitiless Publicity.' Meself could tell him. 'Where's 'Pitiless Publicity?'" says Hughes. 'In the Ash Can,' says I. 'T'was all right on the stump, but in Washin'ton 'tis differ. The Harp that waned through Trenton's halls—I mane Tumulty. When he bursts into song now he picks his clame!"

"'Tis not that Prisdint Wilson is less public than Candydate Wilson—he's less pitiless. 'Tis like the show-man. He tells ye all, an' more, about th' flyant, but he has mital re-va-shune about the spotted baby."

"So it is wud Wilson. He's sof'ed the hard heart iv 'Pitiless Publicity.' 'How about the Postmasters?' axes the refawrumers. 'We'll niver tell ye,' says the C'mishun. 'For why?' says the League. 'T'wid embarr's th' Ad ministrashun,' says the C'mishun. And the people laughs. 'Ye fired th' Hid of the Cinsus,' says Hughes. 'Ye lie,' says Redfield. 'He raysined wid-out bein' axed,' says he. 'Ye lie yer-self,' says Durand. 'Ye towid me ye'd fire me, an' ye gev me place to a politician,' says Durand. 'I'actly f'what I said,' yella Pink Whiskers, 'I was goin' to fire ye annyway, but I niver axed ye to raysine,' says Pinky. An' the people roars."

"'Tell us about all thim Dishurvin' Dimmycrats,' says the people. An' Washin'ton is sweep' be a storm iv silence."

"But don't ye think there's no publicty at all. Teddy himself was none gunshy with the papers, but he cud be quiet too."

"'We'll grab some land in Vinzue-ely,' says the Ambassydure, 'tem'prily,' says he. 'Ye'll not,' says Teddy. 'ye'll agree to arbitrate,' says he. 'or,' he says, 'in thn days Dewey'll be there,' says Teddy."

"'Me Ry'le Masther will niver constat,' says th' other. 'Thin,' says Ted- dy, 'I'll shid Dewey at wast. There's no use waitin'.' Teddy says, 'Howid 'em,' says the Ambassydure. 'We agree,' says he, an' divil a bit did we know how it was for a dozen year."

"'We'll have Ferdie Carey alive or the Bashi Bazook dead,' says Teddy, an' back comes Ferdie. An' the papers says, 'On demand iv the State Depart- ment Ferdie Carey has been released.' An' that's all."

"'How is it now? The greasers slaughters twinty at Santy Isabel. 'Another Mexican Crisis,' says the headlines. 'Twinty Americans killed,' they says. 'The Prisdint Calm,' says they. 'Aces Bacon and Eggs,' says Goluf,' says the headlines. An' the pa- per goes on:

"'The Prisdint's appyite at break- fast was good, th' leader iv the na- shun gettin' outside iv grape fruit, ba- con an' eggs, hot biscuit an' coffee. When Docther Grayson announced the bill iv fare the tinsun over Mexico was much relaved."

"'The Prisdint is solvin' in privacy the fateful question, 'Will me throat last?' The answer is waited wid fe- verish anxiety."

"'Mondah the papers says: 'Nashunal Disaster! Sore Throat Feared! Panic at the Capital! The Prisdint Calm!'"

"'Consternation was spread among all classes today be the report that the Prisdint awoke with a sore throat. Strong men fainted before they cud reach the nearest saloon. There is talk iv appintin' a day iv prayer. It is hoped that Senor Arre-ye-on-though will claim that the dead Americans raysisted tinsun. A high authority states that this wud end the crisis. The Prisdint made but wan remark: 'Av they'd not been there they'd not iv been kilt.'"

"'Choosdah, they says, 'Hope revives. No sore throat. Bitten by insect. Prisdint calm. All Phrases iv Mat- ther to be considered."

"'The anxiety in the Capital was re- laved today be the followin' bulletin: "'The Prisdint has a slight per- foration in the cuticle over the infery- ure maxillary caused be a insect bitin' him when asleep. The patient was too proud to scratch. (Signed) Grayson."

"'It is reported also that General Scott will go to the border to bury the dead, and apologize to the insurgents. He will axe Curranzy, whether he wud accept a loan iv offered. This is con- sidered the thrue slution iv the diff- iculty."

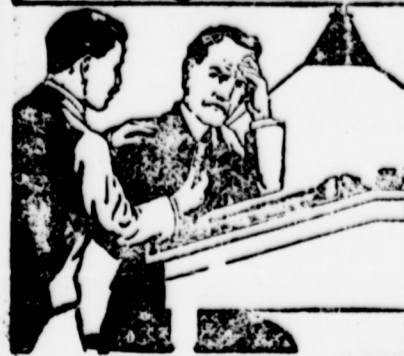

"'Winsdah the Prisdint goes motor- in', Thursdah he writes a note and General Scott starts for the border. Fridah the headlines says 'Peace in Europe near. Prisdint studyin' terms. Will he stop the war? Another note expected. Capital excited over report."

"'But we're comforted be bein' towid the Prisdint will not be bethrayed into hasty ackshun. "Sundah, he's considerin' th' Ar- menyann question, an' Mondah he ad- vices Grandmothers about suckin' eggs. And another crisis is past."

"'So it goes ivry day. As I was say- in', there's a plenty publicty, but 'tis not the brand iv 1912."

Evidently Mr. Wilson has made up his mind about something. He refers in his acceptance speech to "the sov- ereign authority of Mexico." He may have decided to whom he was refer- ring. Less than two years ago he was not sure whether it was the soldier- bandit Villa or the grocer-grafter Car- ranza.

Mrs. B. C. Lewis Takes Prisoner to Penitentiary

Deputy Sheriff Mrs. B. C. Lewis is left here Friday for Frankfort with Nora Watkins, a prisoner, convicted on a manslaughter charge and sentenced to two years in the State Reformatory at the September term of the Knox circuit court. The Watkins woman was charged with killing her infant child by drown- ing it in a rain barrel last June. She lay ill on a cot during the trial. Her attorney argued a motion before the court for a new trial after the jury's ver- dict, but Judge Sampson over- ruled the motion.

Mrs. Lewis, who took the prisoner to Frankfort, is a regu- larly bonded deputy sheriff of Knox county, and has served as deputy for more than two years under her brother-in-law, sheriff Sam L. Lewis. She is the wife of State Senator B. C. Lewis.

NOT ENOUGH CHILDREN

...receive the proper balance of food to sufficiently nourish both body and brain during the growing period when nature's demands are greater than in mature life. This is shown in so many pale faces, lean bodies, frequent colds, and lack of ambition.

For all such children we say with unmistakable earnestness: They need Scott's Emulsion, and need it now. It possesses in concentrated form the very food elements to enrich their blood. It changes weakness to strength; it makes them sturdy and strong. No alcohol.

WOMAN'S DREAM

IS TRUE AT LAST

She knows Why Aunt Lillie...
...hires other to do her...
...fortunes.

To be a sufferer from nervous dyspepsia for ten years, and to bear all the various remedies and physical that this ailment brings, and then to find relief, is a dream, like having a happy dream, is true.

But this was the delightful experience of Mrs. Margaret Hunter, of 14 Eighth Street, Newport, Ky. Mrs. Hunter, the wife of a well-known and highly successful real estate dealer in the Kentucky city, recently told of the long hard struggle in her life.

"For ten years," explained Mrs. Hunter, "I have suffered from nervous dyspepsia. When I read of the offers of multi-millionaires to divide their fortunes if they might be cured of this terrible ailment, I felt that this was my last chance, and I felt, too, that I could never be cured, for I had no millions to offer.

"I used all manner of remedies without avail. Even the strictest dieting did not help me materially. Food in any form was absolutely repellant at most times. But worst of all, of course, was the constant nerve strain. I had all of my symptoms that dyspepsia causes—headaches, backaches and pains in the kidney region, nausea, dizziness, sleeplessness, bad taste in my mouth, a coated tongue, forming of gas in my stomach and bloating, and I was in a generally rundown and thoroughly nervous condition.

"And then came the joyful surprise. After the first few doses of Tanlac I was benefited. Now I am back to a normal condition, nerves quieted, restful sleep, and food digestion as it should, and, of course, I am gaining strength daily.

"My husband, who has seen the splendid effect of Tanlac on me, has also taken it."

Tanlac, that has been this intensely interesting story, is of importance to men and women everywhere, now is being introduced in Harboursville, Ky., at Herndon Drug Co's, drug store, where it is being fully explained.

If the vote tomorrow were to be cast for the election of national officials, there would be an overwhelming plurality in favor of CERTAIN-TEED Roofing.

This is indicated by the fact that "The General" makes 3/4 of all the asphalt roll roofing made in America. The balance is "scattered" among 39 other manufacturers.

Each year CERTAIN-TEED rolls up a strikingly increasing number of advocates, because this type of roof is coming to be recognized as the most efficient covering for all kinds of buildings, with either flat or pitched roofs.

Certain-teed Roofing

Is clean and sanitary, costs less to buy, less to lay, lasts longer and is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to the thickness of the material. It actually lasts longer.

The secret of the long life lies in the quality of the roofing felt, and the method of manufacturing. Roofings do not wear out—their life depends upon the length of time they retain the saturation. CERTAIN-TEED is made of the best quality of roofing felt and is thoroughly saturated with the General's blend of soft asphalt, which keeps the inner covering from becoming brittle and the drying-out process so destructive to the roof.

CERTAIN-TEED is also in slate-surfaced shingles. "The General" makes CERTAIN-TEED for every kind of building, from the largest skyscraper to the smallest residence.

CERTAIN-TEED is sold by responsible dealers all over the world, and you should investigate it before you decide on any type of roofing.

Change Hands.

Whitely Lay has bought out the M. B. Lay business and is now ready to sell to you what you want personally. He is one of the best men in the county ever known, and he is right on the spot to sell you your car when you want it. Kind of car you want.

Lay Can Win

Hon. W. R. Lay who is now being urged by his many friends in Knox and Whitley counties to make the race for Circuit Judge, will, if he enters be a winner.

Mr. Lay is a man of unquestioned fairness, honor and integrity and with Knox county solid behind him, and his large line of kinspeople and friends in Whitley and McCreary, we predict that Lay will be our next Republican Judge in this Judicial district.

What would he give for the coffee you serve?

Like a million other women, you can serve coffee that he would give most anything to have—coffee which starts the day "right" for all.

Everyone loves the rich flavor of Arbuckles' Coffee. Of all the coffees in America, today, it is by far the most popular!

One woman says, "My husband used to swallow his coffee and hurry off. Now we have Arbuckles' and you'd think it was Sunday the way he lingers over his breakfast."

Serve it in your home—see how the little early morning wrinkles disappear.

Until you try Arbuckles' you will never know what a difference good coffee can make in your home.

Arbuckles' Coffee is untouched by human hands. It is weighed, and sealed by machines—machines which Arbuckle Bros. originated and which experts say are the most efficient in the world.
